THE LAST DAYS OF LADY BLESSINGTON .-So much for the public aspect of her career. Those who saw her in her brilliant drawingtoom only, surrounded by the flash of wit and laze of genius, knew little of the hideous skeleton locked within the boudoir. Distant obserother. Her dressing-maid thus describes her anxieties: "Laboring night and day at literary work, all her anxiety was to be clear of debt. She was latterly trying to curtail all her expenses in the establishment, and constantly toiling to get money. Worried and harrassed at not being able to pay bills when they were sent in, and seeing large expenses still going on without the means to meet them, she got no sleep at night." And yet Gore House suffered no abatement of its spiendor. Receptions, balls and re-unions followed each other in endless succession, her salons were crowded night after night with the beauty and wit of aristocratic so-ciety, Count D'Orsay presided twice every week at the sumptuous dinners that drew the clite of the fashionable and literary world around her table, and her stables witnessed no decrease in well-groomed horses and stylish equipages for the daily calls upon her friends or drives along the banks of the Serpentine. For the two or three last years of her London its sham must have made her sick at heart. 'frade-men's bills unpaid and constantly increasing in number, servants clamorous for their vages-protested acceptance for borrowed money pressed constantly for settlement, and at 'ast builifis with executions crowding her doors and seeking through various subterfuges to gain entrance, was the daily normal condition of Lady Blessington's life. To her soul's core she must lave loathed it. Sensible of the hollowness of the smiles of the gay world, whirling found and round in a species of continuous madness, and conscious of the dark guif of bankruptcy to which she was constantly drawing nearer, she was nevertheless unable to make any successful FRENCH WINDOW GLASS & PUTTY. was nevertheless unable to make any successful effort to extricate herself from the danger. Her own language is more affecting than aught else. She goes long past midnight from the drawing ed to be the enchantress, who, with a touch of her wand, could evoke joy in every heart-to her chamber, and before the sound of her guests' carriage wheels have died upon her ears, writes as follows: "My heart is like a frozen fountain, over which the ice is too hard to al-

ROGERS. | GROCERIES, | LIQUORS, | LIQU Exasperated by interminable delays without a | day that the various dirty and fifthy preparations prospect of payment, numberless creditors conjewelers, lace-venders, tax-collectors, and others accompanied by bailiffs holding executions, assembled around the gate in the early morning of April 2, clamorous for admission. A groom in the Blessington livery rode up the street, alighted at the lodge, and was instantly admitted. It was a bailiff in disguise, the poisonous articles claim to do, should have baton of authority levied at once upon the strengthens the roots, makes an excellent dressproperty. The die was cast. Word was at once ing, soiling neither clothes nor scalp; but on the carried to Lady Blessington's bedchamber, who. contrary it gives the scalp a pure and cleanly summoning Count D'Orsay's valet, dispatched look, removing all dandruff and scurf. It is the him instantly to his master with the message that unlesss he made his escape he would be arrested. The Count made light of it. He had been awakened from a sound sleep, and answered "Pap-pah" to every representation of the servant. Lady Blessington, full of alarm, lest his room should be discovered, for by this time half a dozen bailiffs were in possession, rushed into the adjoining dressing-chambers, and, at her passionate entreaties, the Count consented to fly. He reached Paris the next day, where, on the 14th, he was joined by Lady Blessington and her two nieces. Up to this ENVELOPES, INKS, and STATIONERY GENERALLY time Count D'Orsay had been for three years in receipt of an income of about £800 per annum, partly derived from the Incumbered Estates Court, partly from his wife. He had received in all from the Blessington property £103,500 -all of which had gone to his creditors. His annuity ceased upon his leaving England, and he had no property. Lady Blessington, now three score, with her jointure of £2,000 per annum only to depend upon, made preparations for just such another course as she had run in London. She could not grow old. She could not bear to think of death. Taking a residence near the Champs Elysee. and furnishing it with accustomed elegance and luxury, she projected future literary plans, began to read up for them, and busied herself

Member of the Royal College of Surgery of Lonion, urbalitate of one of the most europe of Coleges in the United States, and the Treater part of whose all has been pent in the it spinish London, Paris, Philadelphia and eisewhere, has being marined at success with frequent blushing, attended to his lattice with derangement of mind, were cored immediately

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy ofrects produced by the early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Blead, Dimnessof Signt, Lossof Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Func tions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consump, MENTALLY .- The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pare, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of Consumption

YOUNG MEN Who have injured themselves by a certain prac tice, already described, a habit frequently learned from evil companions or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asteep, and if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply im-

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyment of life by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature, and induiging in pernicious inabite. Such persons must, before contemplating MARRIAGE. Reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness, Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the me'ancholy reflection that the happiness of another is blighted with our own. SEASE OF IMPRUDENCE.

When e misguided and ir prudent votary of pleasur inds that he has unbibed the seeds of this pai. ul disease, it too often happens that an ill-times ense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease makes their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the sum bones and arms, biotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awith disease becomes a horrid object of commisseration till leath puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by sending him to that undiscovered country "from whence no tr : lier returns. It is a reaching fact that thousands DIE victims to the terrible disease, through fiding into the hands of ignorant or unsamini PRE-FENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, end incapable of curing, keep the unmappy sulterer month after month taking their noxious of ajurious compounds, and instead is being re-tored to a renewal of Life. Vigoran Linguiness in despuir leave him with custed identify to sigh over his gailing disappointment.
